Autism Tennessee: Supporting Parents for Healthier Outcomes

Date: Friday, January 9th, 2015
Time: 8:30am to 9:30am (CST)
Location: East Park Community Center, 600 Woodland St, Nashville, TN

- Autism Tennessee’s parent representatives respond to an average of 3,000 requests for resources and support a year. Staff and researchers wanted to quantify how this support was enriching people’s lives.

- With the help of two separate grants from the Baptist Healing Trust and the Meharry-Vanderbilt Community Engaged Research Core, the organization collected data over a three-year period on a subset of the resource and support calls.

- During this lecture, Dr. Lynnette Henderson (Vanderbilt Kennedy Center) and Amanda Peltz (Autism Tennessee) will report their findings on how these efforts have impacted callers’ social isolation, stress and ability to meet the needs of their loved ones.
