Help Us Learn About Music Making and Sharing!

The Perception, Action, & Development Lab at Vanderbilt University is interested in how children’s sharing and helping behaviors are affected by singing and moving together.

Would your 4 or 5-year-old child like to be in our fun and interesting study?

The study will involve about 30 minutes of answering a few questions and participating in musical and non-musical play activities, and your child will receive a small toy as a thank you for participating.
