A. Personal Statement

I am an Assistant Professor of Pediatrics of the Division of Developmental Medicine and Center for Child Development at Vanderbilt University School of Medicine. My primary clinical interests include the evaluation and management of children and adolescents with developmental disabilities, including those with an autism spectrum disorder, intellectual disability, ADHD, and global developmental delays. As a developmental-behavioral pediatrician, I have extensive knowledge and experience in the evaluation and management of these conditions. I have experience improving the medical transition from pediatric to adult healthcare in youth with developmental disabilities through establishing a transition clinic. I also have experience in using telehealth to expand capacity for primary providers to care for individuals with developmental disabilities.
